

$50,000 Before Christmas: My Plan

Part 1: Using Existing Resources

Bryan Kumar

Copyright © 2009 by Bryan Kumar and About-Secrets.com. All Rights Reserved.

Unauthorized duplication or distribution of this material in any form is strictly prohibited. Violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without prior written permission from the author/publisher.

The author, publisher, and distributor of this product assume no responsibility for the use or misuse of this product, or for any injury, damage and/or financial loss sustained to persons or property as a result of using this report. While every effort has been made to ensure reliability of the information within, the liability, negligence or otherwise, or from any use, misuse or abuse of the operation of any methods, strategies, instructions or ideas contained in the material herein is the sole responsibility of the reader.

The reader is encouraged to seek competent legal and accounting advice before engaging in any business activity.

$50,000 Before Christmas: My Plan

Part 1: Using Existing Resources

Over the past decade, many people have asked me...

Bryan, what made the difference for you? What was that one business idea, or marketing strategy, or profit model that finally made it click for you? That finally helped you to start making real money?

The answer may surprise most people because it wasn't a business idea, marketing strategy nor a profit model that finally set me free.

A wise man once shared his number 1, most important and most powerful secret of all, to becoming wealthy.

When this #1 secret was put to use, money came so fast, it frightened him!

The man was Napoleon Hill, and the book he shared this secret in was not titled Think and Grow Rich, but rather a book he had written ten years earlier titled, The Law of Success in 16 Lessons.

His first book was so powerful that the super wealthy individuals of that time freaked out and quickly took the book off the market. It got banned.

Would you like to know what that Number 1, most important step to becoming wealthy is?

I will share it with you, but I must warn you...

Most people who hear about it think it's too simplistic so they discard it and never really put it to use.

For that very reason, most people are not - and will never be - wealthy.

That's also why this powerful knowledge remains to be a secret - because most people just don't realize what it really means.

So, here's that first secret...

The secret that can attract money to you so fast that it will scare you is simply to create a magnificent obsession.

What exactly does a "magnificent obsession" mean?

It means you must have a definitive purpose...a clearly defined purpose...and you must have a burning desire for its achievement.

This is the #1 common denominator for creating wealth, and it is also the very thing that's missing from most people's wealth plan.

You may say, "Big deal, I've known that so-called secret for years now."

Yeah...I did too. For many years. Or so I thought.

But, in reality, I didn't know it at all. I had only heard about it. I had only read about it. I wasn't living it.

And, just "knowing" on a surface level is useless. In fact, some may say its worse than not knowing at all.

So, my question to you is... How Obsessed Are You?

Stop for a moment and think about that. Because if you don't, this report will be useless to you.

And so will the next 10, 20, or even 100 new moneymaking products that you invest your time in.

If you have an absolute burning desire, a white heat of passion about becoming wealthy, it will happen. Otherwise, it won't.

You see...

If your intention is to learn about fancy, new marketing techniques from reading this report, you will be disappointed.

My goal here is not to impress you with how many different and complex marketing techniques I know.

The goal is simple... to make $50,000 fast - within a month's time - in the quickest and easiest way possible.

I will not give you a 100-page manifesto here. If you're familiar with my work, you already know that I rarely do that.

I'm known for creating short, to-the-point reports that get the job done. And then, I let my readers decide which parts they need me to elaborate on. This report will be no different.

A word of warning though... please do not rush through this report. It's very short so you don't have to read it in a hurry. Take some time out by yourself, grab a pen and pad, and then start reading through this.

Finally, as you've noticed from the title above, this is Part 1 of the report. Yes, there's more to come.

The reason: I like to give my readers small, easily consumable and digestible bites. This method tends to ensure that the information gets understood and used better. (Also... I won't have the entire picture till the very last day of my goal deadline, which is December 23, 2009. So, naturally, it's impossible for me to tell you what all I've done until after that date has come and gone.)

Enjoy the first part! The next one is on the way...

The Goal

So... $50,000 within a month's time - without using my existing customer lists or contacts (JV's.) That's kind of a crazy goal. It's definitely something I have not attempted to do before. Not so publicly anyway.

The trick to achieving any goal lies in how we phrase that goal. What are the questions that we're asking ourselves?

If you were to ask most people if making $50,000 in a month is possible, many would say, "I can't make that happen because I've never done it and I don't know how."

And, I can understand that. If you don't know how, then you don't know how.

But, guess what... if you had that attitude about visiting a new place that you've never been to before, how would you get there? You'd probably never leave your house, right?

You won't be able to visit any place new ever again! Because you wouldn't know how to get there.

Alternatively, you could say, "I don't know how to get there YET. But, I'll go find the directions, or I'll ask someone who has been there before."

So, phrasing is very important.

Similarly, you could ask yourself...

"Can I make this happen?" ....versus... "How can I make this happen?"

Just that tiny distinction gives your mind a completely new goal to focus on – a completely different target to move towards.

When you ask, "Can I make it happen?," your mind goes back and looks at your past. If you haven't been able to do anything like this in the past, then your answer is, "NO. I can't make this happen." (especially if it's a new goal that you've never even considered before.)

But, when you ask, "How can I make this happen?," suddenly your mind starts focusing on the things that could make this goal possible to attain.

How you approach (and phrase) your goals are very important, and can often make the difference between success and failure.

Get Inspired

After you have asked the right questions and gotten clear on what it is that you want to achieve, the next step is to fire up your brain. It's a great way to prime the pump before you start brainstorming of ways to reach your goal.

I do this by watching movies that make me feel invincible. I love The Matrix, for example.

Or, you can listen to inspiring music that makes you come alive. Or, even read some books or reports that gets your brain firing. Reports by Allen SAYS or Paul Myers are great for this, especially if your goal is to make some money.

After you've given your brain a virtual adrenaline shot, it's time to pull out a pen and pad so you can start brainstorming some ideas.

I use a fairly large pad, I think it's 15" x 20". I use this to create my mindmaps for new projects.

For a project like this, I separate the page into two sections: existing resources and new resources.

Where Do I Start

This part of the overall plan, i.e. this report...Part 1...is about using existing resources.

Most of us have a number of resources at our disposal that we're not using (including me.) Sometimes it's so obvious that we can't even think of it.

So, that should always be the first step: Take a swift yet thorough inventory of what you already have that you can turn into cash immediately, whether it's products, skills, services, whatever.

The majority of this report will be about how I am using what I already have, and know, to make some quick cash.

Some of the stuff may not apply to you specifically. That's okay. A lot of the other stuff will.

So, the plan is to leverage all your existing assets, skills, and resources (including people.)

Only when you've exhausted all your existing resources should you look to new, uncharted and untested avenues. (Remember, this is about quick cash, so the shorter the learning curve is, the better. You don't have time to gamble.)

Of course, the good thing is, most of us may not be in a tight spot right now. So, you do have some time for learning new stuff. But, still go about it as if you need cash Now. That kind of positive pressure and deadline seems to help us get more things done.

For this particular goal, I am not using my existing lists nor am I striking any joint ventures with others.

But, you don't have to do that. You can use both of those things to help you reach your goals quicker.

Also, if you don't think that any one particular strategy or technique is enough to help you reach your goal, big deal. Use multiple strategies and avenues! There's no rule stating that you have to use only one strategy or method.

Similarly, different people will have different ideas of how to reach the $50,000 goal.

Example: One may say, "Sell a \$1000 item to 50 people" while another may say "Sell a \$10 item to 5000 people."

Either one of those plans could work. But, that doesn't mean we have to choose one over the other. You could do both, or even combine them with other strategies.

Another thing to consider is... you don't need to have or find 5000 buyers, or even 1000 buyers. You can sell several products, with different price points, to the same customers, i.e. repeat purchases, instead of trying to find x number of one-time buyers.

It doesn't matter how you get to your goal. Anything goes, as long as it's legal and ethical.

How I Plan To Make Money Fast

I buy a good amount of new marketing products, mostly to stay informed and current about what's working and how the industry as a whole is evolving.

But, I rarely add something new to my existing systems just because it's something new. And, believe it or not, a lot of the shiny, new products that come out each week aren't as effective as they claim to be. If you've bought some of these new, flashy packages, you already know what I'm talking about.

Anyway...

If I have to make some money fast, I especially don't have time to mess around with the shiny new trick or "system" of the week.

I simply go back to what has worked for me in the past. And, I repeat those things. That goes in line with 'using your existing resources first.'

1. I go to my email list of subscribers and buyers. (If you don't have one yet, I'll show you how to get one very quickly.)
2. I go to the WSO (Warrior Special Offers) Forum. A lot of people are tired of hearing about the profit potential of the Warrior forum so let me just say this...

During this past month, the WSO Forum has been responsible for helping me reach almost 30 percent of my $50 thousand goal. (I'll let you do the math on that. ;-)

Bottom line: If you're not making at least $500 per week from the Warrior Forum, you are not being very smart. And you aren't using the WSO forum to it's full potential. In fact, you are sitting on a goldmine that will remain hidden forever...unless you take the time to figure out how the Warrior Forum works.

Okay... since I was not able to use my own existing email lists for this project (which is what I usually go to first,) the alternative first - and easiest - thing I did was utilize the Warrior Special Offers (WSO) Forum.

The WSO Forum

Forget keyword research and all that stuff. (Leave that for later.)

The easiest way to profit from this is to hang out at the WSO forum and pay attention to what's selling. Which offers are getting the most attention, and which ones seem to be getting a lot of orders? (There's a difference between the two. Some people are good at creating a busy WSO thread, but not as good at making sales.)

Next, model the successful offers. Learn from them and set up your own in similar ways.

Don't just sell what you have to sell. Sell what people are already buying. (Remember, repeat what's successful. Right now is not the time to "try" new stuff.)

Since I've used the WSO forum before, and since my focus is on using my existing resources, I'll quickly go over what I did at the Warrior Forum to help me reach 30 percent of my goal target...

I have a very bad habit when it comes to the WSO Forum...

I create a hot report (for personal use)...or... a PLR package for either IM (internet marketing) or for other hot, in-demand niches. I then plan to sell only 50 to 100 copies.

But, what usually ends up happening is, within the first week of posting the WSO (first post and then maybe one bump,) I sell 30 - 50 sets, and then...I STOP PROMOTING IT. (If anyone else did that, I would call them an idiot. So, to be fair, I should call myself an idiot as well.) I either get bored with it, or I forget to bump the WSO back to the top so it could make more sales, i.e. more money.

Okay... the silver lining in all this is that I have a bunch of hot-selling PLR packages that I can easily re-list on the WSO forum. (You may or may not have existing products you can sell on the forum. It's okay if you don't. We'll address that soon.)

One thing I did this month that I have never done before was to make sure that at least one of my WSOs was on the first page of the WSO forum every single day. That is extremely aggressive for me. (The results have been very positive and I'm wondering if I should do that more often...)

Here are some of the things I decided to do on the WSO Forum this month...

Re-List and Bump the Best Sellers: So, I went back and re-listed or bumped my previous WSOs (Warrior Special Offers) but only those that sold well. I didn't waste my time or effort trying to revive or change the offers that didn't do as well as my top performers. (That's for another day.)

Re-Work and Re-Package Best Sellers: Out of the offers that were successful, I spent a little time on making the headlines more powerful, the offers more enticing, added bonuses, made the order links and certain important aspects of the offer more easily visible.

I also repackaged some products into certain categories and/or into more attractive packages: traffic package, dating/seduction package, etc. with special group offers/prices.

Offer New Private Label Rights: I also offered private label rights to a few of my (for personal use only) products. This wasn't a planned move. It was just something that was quick and easy to do - and I was okay with releasing the rights to these products.

I was also planning on taking some of my existing (for personal use only) marketing reports and opening up a limited number of private label rights for those. I didn't get around to doing that yet, maybe soon.

Of course, once people buy any of my WSOs above, they become a customer, and I can always sell them other products in the future. Even as soon as going to the download page, and anytime within 24 hours after the first purchase. That's just standard marketing, nothing new or fancy about that.

And, if you don't have any products, reports, articles or tools to sell yet, you can still post an offer for a product that you are about to create. You can start working on it after you get paid. (You can give Warriors a discount for pre-paying for the product, ie. paying for the product before it's ready and open to the public. When you do open it to the public, you would sell it for a higher price.)

Building Lists Quickly, From Scratch

After I started doing a few things (like using the WSO forum to relist offers,) I decided that I should work on building a quick list in a hot niche. (After all, selling to a list is usually one of the first things I do to make some quick cash.)

Question: What if you could go to the top experts in any niche and practically "steal" a part of their huge lists?

If you don't have a list of your own yet, please pay attention...

Right now, Twitter is one of the fastest and easiest ways to build your list, in my opinion. I'm talking about adding hundreds, even thousands of people to your list fast.

Since I wasn't able to use my existing email lists for this project, I decided to use Twitter (again, I'm going back to what has produced great results from it in the recent past. )

We go over all the little details of how to do this in Insane Twitter Profits, but the basic steps are:

1. Get a Twitter account, obviously...by going to twitter.com
2. Pick a hot niche. The hotter the better. (And, often, the more competitive, the better.)
3. Start tweeting (posting some stuff on your twitter account) so there's something for people to read when they come to your twitter page.
4. Find the Leaders in that niche. Example: if you picked the Internet Marketing niche, you would go after the "gurus" and top experts.
5. Go to the gurus/experts list of "Followers" and start following those people yourself. Don't overdo this or Twitter could boot you. Do 40 to 50 follows per day. Don't go over 50. (You can do this in 10 minutes per day.
6. Some of the people that you just followed will follow you back. Start offering some free gifts through your Twitter posts so that your followers can get on your email list.
7. Start communicating and selling to your list.

It's a simple and unsexy way to build your list. But it works! And it takes you about 10 minutes per day to get it going.

Bottom line: If you went to the top experts and gurus in any niche and legally "stole" 1 - 10 percent of their list members, do you think you'd have a pretty nice-sized list for yourself? :-)

The answer is YES!

How to Create Hot Products Fast

Okay, so it's fairly easy to get a list going from the WSO Forum or Twitter in a very short time, if you go about it the right way.

But what if you don't have a product of your own to sell to the list that you have just built?

My weapon of choice for this is private label rights! Find products you can easily get PLR to.

Important: Pick a topic/niche that is sizzling hot. Remember, you don't have time to waste here.

In this particular situation, I had 30 days to make money. That's not long at all, considering how much I had to make.

So, I wasn't going to waste my time on creating a product from scratch, writing a sales letter for it and then creating a graphics package for it.

Since I already have my own line of hot PLR packages, I chose a couple from that pack: one dating report and one self defense report.

Here's a quick list of the steps:

1. Pick a sizzling-hot niche. (No, you don't need keyword research for this.)
2. Find/buy private label rights to a hot info-product in this hot niche.
3. Take one or two pages out of the product and create a short report on a specific subject within the main product. (At the end of this short report, offer your readers the entire report for a small price - say $7 to $15)
4. Create a one-page (opt-in form) ad for your report and offer it free in exchange for your readers opting in to your list.

5. Create a thankyou page where readers land after they subscribe. On this page, offer the download link to your free report, and then post the sales page for your complete report right below the download link. (The report that you're going to sell for $7 to $15.)

I also have a ton of products I've bought over the years that came with resale rights and private label rights.

The next easy plan is to bundle these up into enticing, thematic packages and sell them for a highly attractive price. Firesales, dimesales, whatever.

I also wanted to take some of my own products as well as the other PLR products I've bought and convert them into audio and/or video format. And just like that, I've got a new, better, bigger package which I can charge more for.

This really isn't complicated stuff, as you can see. It's not shiny or sexy either. It's just what works well, and continues to work every time:

- You go where buyers (or at least targeted prospects) hang out (WSO forum, Twitter, eBay, etc.)
- You entice them to join your list (offer them something cool and/or valuable for free)
- You sell them what they are interested in buying.

A Quick Free Report That Took Off Like a Rocket

This was one of the most surprising parts of my $50,000 project.

Again, focusing on the "quick and easy" aspect of the project, I took a couple of pages out of about 12 of my hottest PLR packages I had already created, and combined them into one hot report that easily became about 20 pages long.

I added some Clickbank links in it leading to the actual complete reports, and gave the new report to my list for free - with the option for them to customize the order links with their own Clickbank IDs and pass it out to everyone they knew (their own lists, friends, family, etc.) for free, as a nice holiday gift.

As I said, I didn't expect this to do as well as it did, considering it's a very old strategy. The results surprised me, and turned into a nice chunk of profits for both me and my small group of "resellers."

Here are the steps, in a nutshell:

1. Find 10 to 15 sizzling-hot PLR products. (PLR is very easy to acquire these days.)
2. Extract 1-2 pages from each product and add a Clickbank order link at the end of each section with a short message similar to "to learn more about this subject, get the full report from which this information was extracted" and then place the link to the sales page for that product below it.
3. Compile all of these short reports into one larger report.
4. Use a PDF branding software to make the large report brandable, i.e. the reader can insert his/her Clickbank ID into the order links and earn a commission from any sales that get generated.
5. Pass the finished report out, with the branding utility to anyone and everyone.

You can even offer this free report via your Twitter account. You don't even have to get people to opt in for it. Just send straight to the download page where they can download the report as well as the instructions to customize and pass it on to others.

If you don't know much about PDF branding or don't have the branding software, let me know and I'll include that in the updates area of this report.

Flipping Existing Assets

Next, I started thinking about some of my existing sites that were doing alright (more existing resources I could use or sell.) These are sites that still get traffic and orders but since I don't do anything to actively promote them anymore, they're not major income earners.

But they could be nice income generators for someone who could put a little time into it promoting it, maybe creating some backlinks to it, listing it into affiliate directories, or even actively recruiting some affiliates. When you have a site and product that has proven to make sales, the rest becomes a lot easier.

The thought was, I would get a heck of a lot more for these sites upfront (as in right now) if I just flipped them, i.e. sold them to other entrepreneurs/marketers who had the time and interest in marketing them.

So, I could sit on those sites for several months and earn some money, or I could sell it to someone and make more money immediately. (I could just as easily recreate similar sites at a later time, if I decided to actually turn them into substantial income earners - or just more stuff to accrue some time and become flippers later.)

The thing about flipping sites is, it helps a lot if you can prove that it is something that is already making money.

For example, you could take a brand new product and site, run a WSO for that product, make a bunch of sales, and then show proof to a potential site buyer that the site is in fact making sales when buyers are sent to the site.

All of that can actually be done, from start to finish, within a week's time. (Again, you could take a hot PLR product, create a site, promote it to your list, and then sell the site itself for several times more than what you'd make in a month.

eBay

Similarly, you can take the assets you already own, but don't really need, and sell it on eBay or Craigslist.

For most people, going through their garage and/or closet could help turn up some unused items worth selling. The same could work for unused books, toys, etc. (You may or may not make much money from this, but it's still considered an existing resource, and worth pursuing for some people as part of the overall "fast money" plan.)

In my case, I have a bunch of marketing products and courses that I have no need for. Sadly, I even have a few packages that never got opened. They are brand new.

I really don't do much with eBay. But, it's always there, if I ever need to use it. And, it (eBay) often makes it into the brainstorming sessions for people who want to make some money quickly.

I don't know what eBay's policy is on information these days, but I wonder if selling CDs or DVDs containing information would work. If that's the case, there's a ton of resale/PLR products I could sell.

An easy way CDs are moved (you've probably seen this on TV) is to give the CD away free, and charge for shipping and handling. I've seen people charge $10 or more for shipping and handling. They're obviously making a profit from this. But, if the contents of the CD is actually worth more than $10, would you call it a more than fair exchange?

Offering Services

The next thing that I added to my list of existing resources was "services I could offer."

The cool thing about services is, you don't need a finished product in order to make a sale. You can start work after you get paid, or at least get some of the money up front. (Just be careful not to take on more projects than you can handle. I've made this mistake before - and it's not fun playing catchup.)

Now, here's something for you to seriously ponder...

If you've spent just a few months on the Warrior Forum, you know something about business and marketing that most people don't know. That makes your knowledge marketable.

In my case, here are some of the things I came up with, if I really had to offer my services to others:

For online marketers, I could offer my copywriting services, site overhaul, fix their headlines (for sales letters, emails, etc.) or even offer to create or rework their autoresponder series. (I used to make good money copywriting and consulting for other businesses in the past. I don't do this very much at all these days, but it's there if I need to make use of it.)

For offline marketers and business owners, I could offer to show them how to find joint venture partners to quickly increase their sales - I could even set it up to where I would get a royalty for each sale that the jv partners brought in.

I could offer to improve their ads, sales letters, headlines, etc. Or again, educate them about online marketing and offer to set up an autoresponder series for them, do some basic SEO stuff, help come up with a quick report they could give away, and even help them with the website opt-in form setup, etc.

If planned and executed correctly, any of these could result in $500 to $1000 per business in a very short time.

And, if you don't think you have any such skills to offer other businesses, here's something that will really get your brain firing...

Bartering

You may have heard or read about the guy who started out with one tiny paperclip and kept exchanging/trading it with others for bigger and better items. I think in the end, he had landed a car or something (maybe it was a house, I don't remember.)

My point is, you don't need to have a skill that your ideal customer or target would want. You can do a 3-way, 4-way, 5-way barter (or whatever it takes) till you eventually get what you're after. Or you can do like the paperclip guy did and keep exchanging what you have till get get what you want.

So, if you don't have anything to sell to others right now, or if you don't have a skill or service to offer a business owner, you can take whatever skill or knowledge you do have, and barter with it till you do end up with the product or service that you can sell to someone.

In the end, it's about using/leveraging your existing resources to secure something that you can sell to others.

This is a strategy that few people utilize. But, it's very powerful, and you'd be amazed with where you end up on this barter ride.

You don't have to start out with other businesses. You can start with co-workers, acquaintances, friends, family members, etc. Just plan your actions ahead of time. Figure out what it is that you want, then think of which people (and how many) you'll need to get to what you're after.

Online Trading

Trading is something I have a lot of experience with, so in my case, it's definitely an existing resource I can utilize.

This one is obviously not for everyone, but if you're interested in learning more, let me know and I will include a report on this along with this $50k package.

If you've connected with me via Facebook, you've already seen my gold and oil updates that I post there for all my friends to see.

Joint Ventures

As I've mentioned before, I didn't use joint ventures for this particular project. But, I am a big fan of JV's.

I will include a report on JVs for you as well, that will basically show you what I know about striking successful JVs.

Why Isn't It Working?

When I first decided to make money from the Internet (back in 1995,) one of the biggest challenges for me was a lack of information. There just wasn't much out there in the subject of making money from the Internet. And if there was, I sure as heck didn't know where it was.

Today, the problem is rather different for most people. In two words, it's information overload. There is way too much information out there, and it's hard to sift through 90% of the junk in order to get to the real stuff - the stuff that actually works.

But even out of the remaining 10 percent of moneymaking information that does work, it can still be challenging to figure out which plan or system or strategy to go with.

In this report, I am sharing with you what has worked for me. Not all of it will apply to you (trading, copywriting, etc.) But, a lot of it will apply, and you'll at least be able to pick and choose from what does work.

As I mentioned earlier, there are a lot of good products out there on how to make money from the Internet...even if collectively they only make up 10 percent of everything that's out there. I would even call a few of them "great" products.

So, why aren't more people able to make money from the Internet?

Well... are you ready for the truth...?

If you happen to be someone who has already read and studied a lot of other marketing material, and still have not been able to make money from the Internet, there are typically just a few reasons for that:

1. You haven't found a product yet that's good (or great.) But, to be very blunt with you, this is rarely the reason for most people's failure.
2. You have an average to weak success and money mindset. Your beliefs and habits related to money is negative. This is most often the reason so many people continue to buy product after product without getting anywhere. (You need to get this fixed before you can get anywhere. Unfortunately, there is no way around it.)
3. You have less-than-useful work habits and behaviors. Focus, consistency, time management, persistence are just a few qualities that are needed to make it in this business. A book could be written for each section.

There are, of course, many other reasons you may be failing in the Internet money area, but the above 3 are the main ones that I continue to see in most people.

I'm sorry if the above seems harsh or even cruel. But, if you have put in a lot of your time, energy and money into learning how to make money, it's probably a good thing that someone just tell you what's really going on, even if it is painful to hear.

I wish someone had slapped me across the face with this stuff when I was first starting out.

I was raised in a very negative environment, and as such, I had to battle with my own beliefs and habits for many years before I finally overcame them.

Unfortunately, you don't have to be raised in a negative environment in order to have negative beliefs and habits about money. Much of the Western society is set up in a way that isn't very helpful when it comes to teaching people about money. (What I know now is that it doesn't have to take years to change your beliefs and your mindset. It can be done very quickly. If you need help in this area, let me know and I will elaborate on it.)

And, then, of course, there is the part about having a burning desire to become wealthy.

This isn't a book about 'success and money' mindset, so I won't go any further on this subject.

So... do with the above information what you will, if it applies to you. You can continue spinning your wheels, or you can address the problem so that you can get it resolved and get the heck on with your life.

If you need more information on this, I have other reports you can read. Just let me know if it interests you.

Bottom line: This report will not help you make any money. Not a penny. Unless you first take care of your mindset.

Otherwise, this report will just end up being another one you download, read, follow and fail to see results with.

Remember what we started this report with...

You will get nowhere unless and until you create a burning desire inside of yourself for making money, for becoming wealthy... a magnificent obsession that gets you up in the morning and keeps you moving forward despite the challenges and obstacles that get in the way.

So, let me end this report with a question... How Bad Do You Want It?

I guarantee that if you take what you've read here and apply it honestly and seriously, 2010 will be an extremely good year for you.

Start taking some kind of action today, right now if you can.

I'll see you in Part 2 of this report.

Thanks for reading, and for taking this $50,000 journey with me. :-)

I appreciate your participating in the Warrior Forum thread I started about this. And, feel free to share your thoughts and/or questions with me.

2010 is going to be a great year. I can feel it already. How about you?

Sincerely,
Bryan Kumar

PS. Just thought I'd mention something interesting about this project. I've been out of town for most of the month while working on this project. And, I've only been able to spend about an hour per day on it. Just a little something to think about, and maybe inspire some people to get started with this business. :-)

PPS. Remember, if you have questions on any part of this report, just let me know and I'll be happy to elaborate on those areas.

This report is not about making money for me. It's about giving back to the Warrior Forum and the Warrior Family that our good friend Allen Says, and You, have helped create. (You'll notice there are no links in the report. Not even to my own websites.)

Copyright © 2009 by Bryan Kumar and About-Secrets.com - All Rights Reserved.

Unauthorized duplication or distribution of this material in any form is strictly prohibited. Violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without prior written permission from the author/publisher.